Autobiographical Note of a Wanderer, a Prologue to the Cosmic City Vishwajeet Singh

Autobiography of a Wanderer, the Prologue to the Cosmic City details the journey of an Indian wanderer, who travels to find his happiness and destiny, to refine his skills and to underline the Grand Purpose of the humanity. The protagonist experiences the life of gypsies, the corrupt governance of Bihar in India, the life at Kholi in Mumbai, the life in India and America, etc and meets people from different faiths and origins. He learns a lot about himself and the ways of the world.

In his travels, he meets a young Muslim girl who tells him, “We all have good and bad in us,” and advises to him, “We all need to look up to positive thinking and attitude and timely weed out negatives as often as possible.” Further, he also meets a mystical saint in the hills of the Himalayas, who says, “Now, it is time for you to go. Go and live your life, be a good man, pass good knowledge, be positive about everything and travel across time and space. Your purpose in this world is served even if you live low and poor, but you must live honest, hardworking, happy and serving the humanity through creating or procreating an enlightened soul. Each one of us must be the light for at least one.” The protagonist wanders for thirty-five years in solving the puzzles of his life until he realizes that the best resource that he has is the Generational Wanderer, Gewa; who always tempts him to set out on a new journey. He yearns to connect and commune with Gewa to discuss about the crises.

Finally, he meets Gewa, who talks to him about the global crises and the role of Modern Science. Gewa suggests, “No power, no position, no wealth, no luxury, not even wine and sex can bring happiness to you unless you choose to create it for yourself! And the choice is always yours. It is a state of your mind – the Beatitude that enables you to see how your individual goal fits in the Grand Purpose of the humanity ...” He finally states, “... you can’t reach the Cosmic City through smoking weeds, wearing red robes, performing religious rites and procreation but through Modern Science – the window to the knowledge of the Truth.” But then, he also realizes that he must not stop there with the revelations of Gewa. He must also listen to the call of his heart furthermore to earn the prerequisites suggested by Gewa – the Grains of Faith, the Soul, the Partner Soul, the Secret Key and the knowledge of the Truth to go anywhere close to the Gate of the Cosmic City.

Thus, Autobiographical Note of a Wanderer, a Prologue to the Cosmic City is an attempt to define what success is all about, and how to trace it in the real life through mistaking, learning, earning and celebrating each moment of life. It is an attempt to lay out the path to an individual’s happiness and destiny! It helps you in finding your individual goal, defines the Grand Purpose of the humanity and upholds the age-old belief about the existence of the Intelligent Species. It also cheers the modern scientists for their logical realization of these species. Overall, the note is an appeal to support, promote and participate in Science in order to pursue the Truth, more so in the light of the dangers looming large on the humanity, solely caused by the climatic changes in general and the global warming in particular.
